"Trust"

How delicate a line trust is
It's powerful yet frail and wavering
A dam that can hold the weight of the world
With one small fracture
We spill forever into the grey pools of distrust

"2020"

The year 2020 forced new perspectives on our everyday life Perspectives that are surreal, abstract, and off-putting

It's hard to adapt to
But we must
Can we hang on?

Can I?

Take me back to the island where I was carefree

To the crystal turquoise seas

Where I was so unfamiliar with everything

Let me go back

Take me back to dance in the arcades

To the essence of my childhood

Where I was so familiar with everything

Let me go back

Take me back to the island where I was carefree

"Strip of Reality"

I'm nothing more, than a strip of reality
No matter how my eyes conjure the world around me
It's not my own
It'll never be my own
Cause my body is nailed down to this world
To the true reality that I don't want to be bound to
But where my mind is forced to be I'm just a human
I'm nothing more, than a strip of reality

Despite our differences in race, sexuality, spiritualities, shape, and forms We're all interconnected fibers that create the human race
At the core, we're all human, and we all share that commonality

Let's take a moment to remember that
Let's be "one" color for a moment

Oh, heavy shadow, why do you reap what I sow?

Falling onto earth, blanketing areas you littered with your sorrow

Bewitching anything you touch without a care

Casting black incantations here and there

A leeching silhouette that sips on bliss

Leaving chills in my bones

You're my black magic witch that curses my heart empty with moments of melancholy

My tributaries, my capillaries

My hands, my heart petrified

Your disease infested my brain

So, my bones cracked open

Souring my marrow blue

Flushing out my internal red rivers into a sea of midnight Prussian hues

Expelling my spirit into the ether

Burning out my anatomy ashy grey

Leaving my heart empty handed

Soulless and without a care

With nothing

Colors fill my lungs, my heart, my mind, my

Letting the enigma of spectrums lift my

Illuminating my eyes full of boundless tonalities
Until I start to fall, dive, and sink back into the blank canvas
Unleashing my rainbows left and right Raining down my secret hues onto the gradient filled wonder land of sinesthesia
The land of my third eye

I'll be drowning
I'll be living

“Root”

My roots are growing between the earth and the skyline, the in-between I'm trying to grow into them
Finding what it is to be between being delicately airy and well-grounded simultaneously

Is this growing up?

My experience with chromesthesia means that I am able to harness color to create delicate, light and compositionally balanced art. I often strive to find otherworldly, desolate, and surreal scenes with peculiar colors which I use to express my life's journey. It is my hope that my work will connect others while creating a safe space for me to process life's atrocities.
